

Finals:

The United States federal government should take substantial steps to limit data collection by companies in the United States.

America has lost her moral commission.

In times of war, freedom to communicate should be prioritized over security.